The message in today's liturgy is for everyone to reexamine what she or he is really seeking in life. The reality of God's kingdom can be found and experienced in the things of ordinary daily life. Each day men and women walk by many "mustard shrubs" without a thought other than someone ought to cut those ugly things down. There is no need to chase after the kingdom of God. The kingdom of God dwells within you and wherever you are. This is not an easy message for many people to grasp. Our culture and our environment worships power and greatness. No one strives to be ordinary. Bigger is always better than smaller. More is always better than less. All of this is easily transferred onto the images used to describe God and God's kingdom. Jesus came preaching and countercultural reality. He presented a vision of God and the kingdom of God that is rooted in everyday human life and experience.
